After the attack on Pearl Harbor the group was dispersed throughout the Caribbean, personnel and equipment arrived at Station 418, Kingsnorth, Kent, England after a brief stop in Liverpool.

26 Sep 1944, the 36th Fighter Group, poses in Western France with bottles of Champagne, gifts from Lt Gen Patton after supporting him in Sep 1944.

22 Dec 1939, the history of the 36th Wing started on paper when the Headquarters U.S. Army Air Corps (AAC) constituted the 36th Pursuit Group (Interceptor).

1 Feb 1940, Headquarters U.S. Army Air Corps activated the 36th Pursuit Group (36 PG) at Langley Field, VA, with three squadrons, 22 PS, 23 PS, and 32 PS. Initially, the unit was equipped with P-36 Mohawks.

1 Aug 1940, the original Wing emblem insignia was officially approved. It was drawn by, Captain later, Maj Gen Charles J. Bondley, Jr. (1910-1973) while he was assigned to the 36th.

29 Jul 1941, the 36th Pursuit Group participated heavily in a ceremony held for President Franklin D. Roosevelt’s visit to Langley Field.

14 Jan 1941, the group personnel and aircraft arrived at Ponce Air Field (Later Losey Field), Puerto Rico with 17 P-36s, 2 AT-6 Texans, and one B-10B Bolo bomber where they flew anti-submarine patrols over the Caribbean.

c. May 1941, the 36th began receiving the newest pursuit planes in the Army Air Corps’ inventory the P-39 Airacobra and the P-40 Warhawk.

20 Jun 1941, Army Air Corps became a part of the new expanded Army Air Forces (AAF).

7 Dec 1941, following the attack on Pearl Harbor the group was dispersed throughout the Caribbean and expanded its anti-submarine patrols to include the Panama Canal Zone.

15 May 1942, Headquarters U.S. Army Air Forces redesignated the 36th to the 36th Fighter Group (Single Engine).

22 June 1943, the 36th Fighter Group (36 FG) arrived in Charleston, SC and received the new P-47 Thunderbolts and began training in bombing and aerial gunnery at many different locations throughout the U.S. The 32 FS stayed behind in the Caribbean.

22 June 1943, 53d Fighter Squadron joined the 36 FG and would remain part of the 36th for over 50 years.

22 Mar 1944, After a brief stay in New York the 36 FG boarded the HMT Stirling Castle bound for the European Theatre of Operations (ETO).

4 Apr 1944, personnel and equipment arrived at Station 418, Kingsnorth, Kent, England after a brief stop in Liverpool.

8 May 1944, assigned to the 9th Air Force (9 AF), the 36 FG flew its first combat mission with a fighter sweep over the French coast to bomb P-47Cs and P-47Ds. No target was designated and none attacked. The goal of the P-47s at the time was to hit specific targets such as bridges, heavy gun emplacements, railroad supplies, and destroy the flak guns.

13 May 1944, Capt Cortner made the 36th’s first enemy kill - a Focke-Wulf 190, while escorting B-26 Marauders near Pontoise, France.

21 May 1944, 36th’s suffered its first casualty when Maj Debler, 53 FS, didn’t return from a sweep over France.

27 May 1944, 1Lt Frank A. Fazekas, a member of the 22 FS, 36 FG, was returning from a mission over northern France when his P-47 Thunderbolt came under enemy fire. The aircraft crashed in a field north of the French village of
In 1949, Maj Harry K Evans the leading pilot in a group of three, 36th Fighter Wing, F-80B Shooting Stars returning from Malta suggested the pilots try some aerobatics on the way back to the base. The identical twins Lieutenants C. A. “Bill” and Charles C. “Buck” Pattillo, right and left wingmen agreed. The idea for the aerial expedition team “Skyblazers” was born. (Pattillo twins were also the USAF “Thunderbirds” first right and left wingmen in 1953!) During the Cold War, USAFE headquarters was looking for an aerobatic team in order to showcase the might of the Air Force to friends and potential foes in the European theatre. Pilot Lt Lawrence D. Damewood and spare pilot John P. “Obie” O’Brien joined the team and the “Skyblazers” were ready to fill their demand. Except for the years 1953-1956 (48 & 86 FWSs), the 36th Tactical Fighter Wing “Skyblazers” remained constant appearance around Europe until Jan 1962.

Buyssechere; remains were not recovered and the U.S. Army reported him deceased. On 7 Aug 2017, Lt Fazekas’ remains were accounted for by the Defense POW/MIA Accounting Agency (DPAA). He was buried in Arlington National Cemetery, 28 March 2018.

6 Jun 1944, during the famous D-Day landing at Normandy, the 36th provided convoy and beachheads “Utah” and “Omaha” fighter cover, bombed and strafed in support of ground troops, and provided visual reconnaissance reports.

13 Jun – Aug 1944, the Group endured German V-1 "Buzz Bomb" rocket attacks destined for London, but fell short at Kingsnorth Airfield.

4 Jul 1944, some of the 36th’s squadrons and Airmen began to transfer material, equipment, and aircraft to Site A-16, near Brucheville, Normandy, France.

25-31 Jul 1944, 36th Fighter Group’s P-47s supported the First Army Corps during their breakout of Saint-Lô after they were ensnared in the hedgerows of Normandy.

Aug - c. Nov 1944, the 36 FG kept pace with Lt Gen George S. Patton’s fast-moving Third Army throughout his advance deep into enemy territory. The group’s efficiency and endurance earned it the nickname, the “Fightin’ 36th”.

25 Aug 1944, the 36th moved again to Site A-35, near Le Mans, Sarthe, France.

1-2 Sep 1944, awarded its first Distinguished Unit Citation for outstanding performance of duty when elements of the retreating German Army were caught near Poitiers, France, with 311 motor transports, 97 tanks, and other armor vehicles destroyed.

30 Sep 1944, the 36th transferred again its air operations to Site A-68, Juvincourt, Reims, France.

1 Oct 1944, the 36th received the Citation in the Order of the Day, Belgian Army.

22 Oct 1944, the 36th spent the winter of 1944-45 at their new landing strip at Site A-89, Le Coulet, Belgium.

During the month of Nov 1944, the 36th flew 978 sorties in 19 days in support of the Ninth Army. The “Fightin’ 36th” destroyed 36 locomotives, 46 railcars, 38 motor transports, 53 buildings, 22 gun emplacements, two ammo dumps, and a hangar.

16-25 Dec 1944, the 36th participated in the Battle of the 52 TFW activated there. The 52 TFW’s activation at Spangdahlem AB, left the 36th with only three squadrons, the 22d, 53d, and 525 TFSSs.

1 Oct 1969, the 525 FIS redesignated as a Tactical Fighter Squadron (TFW).

30 Sep 1973, all three flying squadrons completed the transition to the F-4E Phantom II fighter.

27 April 1977, arrival of the first F-15 Eagle squadron made the 36th the first wing outside the continental US to fly this fighter. The 525 TFS was the first squadron to bring F-15s to Europe.

Oct 80 -Dec 1981, the 36th transitioned to the F-15C to D model Eagles.

In 1981, the 36th became the first USAFE unit to deploy to Nellis AFB, NV, to participate in Exercise RED FLAG.

1 Sep 1986, the 36th assumed control and responsibility for the operation of the old French Caserne located next to the base and renamed it the Bitburg Caserne. Construction began on Survivable Collective Personnel Shelters (SCPS).

13 Sep 1987, construction began outside of the Trier Gate on a multi-million dollar complex to house the Patriot missile system.

1 Oct 1991, 36 TFW redesignated to the 36th Fighter Wing for a second time.

30 Sep 1994, 36th Fighter Wing inactivated at Bitburg AB, Germany.

GULF WAR—Dec 1990- Jul 1991, the 36th deployed the 53d Fighter Squadron (FS), additional pilots and aircraft from the 22 and 525 FSs, plus support personnel to Southwest Asia, to assist in UN operations to liberate Kuwait. Wing pilots were credited with seventeen enemy combat aircraft destroyed, 14 air to air victories. Photo: The 36th was represented in this famous photograph of oil wells burning in Iraq. 29 Sep 1956; The Skyblazers were transferred back in the sponsorship of the 36 FDW. The team was lead by future General, Capt Wilbur L. Cheetch.

c. 1956 - 1958, Two future NASA astronauts were assigned to the 36th. The 22d FDS’s Flight Commander Col Edwin Buzz Aldrin, famously the second man to walk on the moon, 20 Jul 69. Lt Col Edward H. White, II, who was the first American to walk in space on 3 Jun 65. Sadly, he was killed in the Apollo 1 accident at Cape Canaveral, 27 Jan 67.

12 Feb 1957, The 525th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron (525 FIS) arrived as a tenant unit, began flying operations at Bitburg originally equipped with the F-86H’s and converted to the F-102A Delta Dagger in 1959.

8 Jul 1958, Redesignation as the 36th Tactical Fighter Wing (36 TFW).
1 Aug 1958, The 461 TFS inactivated at Landstuhl AB, West Germany.
15 Nov 1959, The 36th was assigned to the 17 AF.
13 May 1961, The first F-105 Thunderchiefs in Europe are assigned to the 36th.
12 Jan 1962, The Skyblazers disbanded as USAFE’s aerial demonstration team for the final time. The 36th remembered Skyblazers by the naming the Bitburg Recreation Center “Skyblazer” and the base newspaper was named the “Skyblazer” c. 1950—1994.

20 Mar 1966, the F-4D Phantom II fighter began to replace the Thunderchiefs.
Jul-Nov 1968, the 36th moved all flying operations to nearby Spangdahlem AB during Operation GULLY JUMP.
1 Nov 1968, the 525 FIS, still flying F-102s, were assigned to the 36th instead of being a tenant command at Bitburg.

1 Apr 1969, A shift in the capabilities of the 36th occurred when the 39th Tactical Electronic Warfare Squadron (39 TEWS) was activated.
30 Apr 1969, The 71st Tactical Missile Squadron deactivated with its MCM-13 Mace Missiles marking the end of missile operations at Bitburg AB.

COLD WAR

Feb 1946, the 36 FG, less personnel and equipment, departed Europe and moved to Bolling Field, Washington, D.C.

21 Mar 1946, the 36th moved again to Peterson Field, CO. less personnel and equipment.

9 Sep 1946, the group once again had personnel and equipment reassigned to Howard Field, Canal Zone, Panama.

13 Oct 1947, conversion began from the P-47 to F-80 Shooting Star.

2 Jul 1948, increased tensions in Europe caused by the Soviet Berlin blockade and subsequent Berlin Airlift, the 36th Fighter Wing (36 FW) was activated at Howard Field, Panama under the command of Col Henry Spicer who was the 36 FG commander at the time. (The later Maj Gen Spicer’s P-51 Mustang was shot down during WWII and became well known for his legendary leadership in a German POW Camp.)

15 Jul 1948, the 36th assembled aboard the USS Sicily on transfer notification to USAFE’s 12th Air Force to return to Europe.

7 Aug 1948, all of the aircraft, pilots, and most of the maintenance personnel and equipment arrived in Glasgow, Scotland. The aircraft were towed from the docks to RAF Renfrew where they were readied for the trip to the 36th new home at Fürstenfeldbruck (Fursty), West Germany.

13 Aug 1948, ferry flights began and all 82 F-80s were in place at “Fursty” by 20 August. The wing became the first US jet fighter-equipped unit stationed in Europe.

9 Jun 1949, the first official trans-Atlantic jet ferry flight concluded when 11 F-80s and four T-33s arrived at Fursty.

1 Oct 1949, while at Fürstenfeldbruck AB, the 22d Fighter Squadron formed the “Skyblazers” USAFE’s aerial demonstration team, and conducted their first official show at Gutersloh Royal Air Base. Their first unofficial aerial show was on the one year Anniversary of the USAF, 17 Sep 48. The Pattillo Twins (Left & Right Wingmen) would go on to help form the “Thunderbirds” in 1953. Additionally, Lt Gen Charles C. “Buck” Pattillo, would later return to the 36th as its commander 12 May 67- 26 Mar 68 and finished his career as the PACAF Vice Commander 1975-1979.

20 Jan 1950, the 36th was redesignated the Fighter-Bomber Wing (36 FBW) and received the new F-84 Thunderjets. The first in Europe.

1 Mar 1951, Brig Gen Robert Lee Scott, Jr. became the 36 FBW/CC. A pilot for the WWII famous 23d Fighter Group “Flying Tigers” in China and wrote the book “God is My Co-Pilot.”

11 Aug 1951, the group provided 44 aircraft for a static display and a Skyblazer demonstration to future president Gen Dwight D. Eisenhower.

21 May 1952, Capt John P. O’Brien, a member of the Skyblazer team died in an aircraft accident near London.

24 Jul 1952, the 53d Fighter-Bomber Squadron (53 FBS) began flying operations at the newly constructed Bitburg, Air Base, West Germany the future home of the 36th.

30 Aug 1952, the original Skyblazer team disbanded after performing its final show at the International Aviation Exposition in Detroit, Michigan. From 1952—1956 the Skyblazer team continued to perform while assigned to the 48th and 86th Fighter-Day Squadrons.

17 Nov 1952, the 36th completed their move Bitburg AB where it would stay until 1994.

10 Mar 1953, 36th’s international incident; two 53 FBS’s F-84Gs were scrambled from Fursty to intercept two unidentified aircraft near the Czechoslovakian border. One of the Czechoslovakian MiG-15s opened fire damaging one of the F-84s enough for the pilot to bail out and the aircraft crashed.

8 May 1953, dedication ceremonies officially open Bitburg AB

1 Aug 1953, the F-86 Sabrejet arrived at Bitburg to replace the F-84s. The first in Europe.

20 Mar 1954, first ever overseas USAF missile deployment was the 1st Pilotless Bomber Squadron (1 PBS) equipped with the BM-1 Matador missile at 36th Fighter-Bomber Wing. The MCM-13 Mace Missile, followed the Matador at Bitburg AB, W. Germany, 1962-69.

8 Aug 1954, the 36th was redesignated a Fighter-Day Wing (36 FDW) comprised of the 22nd, 23rd, and 53rd Fighter-Day Squadrons.

11 Jan 1955, the 36 FDW Commander, Col Roy R. Brischetto was killed while piloting his F-86 that crashed on takeoff from Bitburg AB.

8 Sep 1955, the 32d Fighter-Day Squadron at Landstuhl AB, West Germany, was assigned to the 36th.

8 Feb 1956, the 461st Fighter-Day Squadron at Landstuhl AB, West Germany, was assigned to the 36th which meant five fighter squadrons assigned.

13 Mar 1956, newly equipped with F-100 (Supersabres), the 36th became the first wing in USAFE outfitted with the supersonic jet aircraft.

Members of the 22 FDS’s 1957
